

GREAT FIGHT IS ON TODAY

Advices From the Front Announce That the Russians Are Closely Hemmed In.

ADVANCING AS DISPATCH ARRIVES

The Japanese Are Drawing the Net More Closely About the Unfortunate Russians Each Hour.

(Special by Scripps-McLae.)
London, Aug. 29.—A dispatch from Liaoyang this morning reports the fighting south of Liaoyang still continues. Sunday night and today the Japanese have been pressing continuously on our southern front. The infantry fought under difficulties, the troops falling back, and being hampered by a number of baggage companies, which they had with them. The fighting continued all day yesterday and finally resolved itself into a terrible rear guard action. The Russian losses are very great. General Rottorf and Col. Von Reuben are among the killed. The Japanese artillery fire was resumed at six this morning. The point of pressure was again on our front and south of Liaoyang. Our advance scouts have fallen back. The firing was not opened with the same vigor as yesterday. This morning the Japanese infantry are advancing for an attack. The regiments are deploying and pushing forward in order to advance with great rapidity and determination, and are spared no sacrifice. One battalion attacking Siao Ling Si position lost all its officers. It is certain the battle of Liaoyang will be a fierce and historic one.
London, Aug. 29.—The Copenhagen agent of Lloyd's wires that two Russian torpedo boats passed there today bound for the south.
Almost Gone
Paris, Aug. 29.—The Petit Journal prints a report that General Stoessel has wired Kuropatkin the Russians at Port Arthur cannot hold out much longer.
St. Petersburg, Aug. 29.—Kuropatkin reports the whole Russian force are now concentrated about Liaoyang. The Japanese under Kuropatkin and Nodzu have united against the Russian left, while Oku is advancing on the Russian center and right wing.
Capture Anping
London, Aug. 29.—A Central News Tokyo dispatch states the Japanese captured Anping twelve miles southeast of Liaoyang; also Tang Hsiao Eng, seventeen miles southeast. The Russians abandoned Anping as soon as the Japanese advance guard appeared. The Russians left large quantities of stores. The Japanese occupied An Chai Shan which was evacuated by the Russians on Saturday. The Russians have thirteen divisions and one hundred and ninety-five thousand men around Liaoyang.

ALL KUROPATKIN WANTS IS TO RETREAT TO HARBIN

Will Be Willing to Let the Japs Control the Country if He Can Escape.

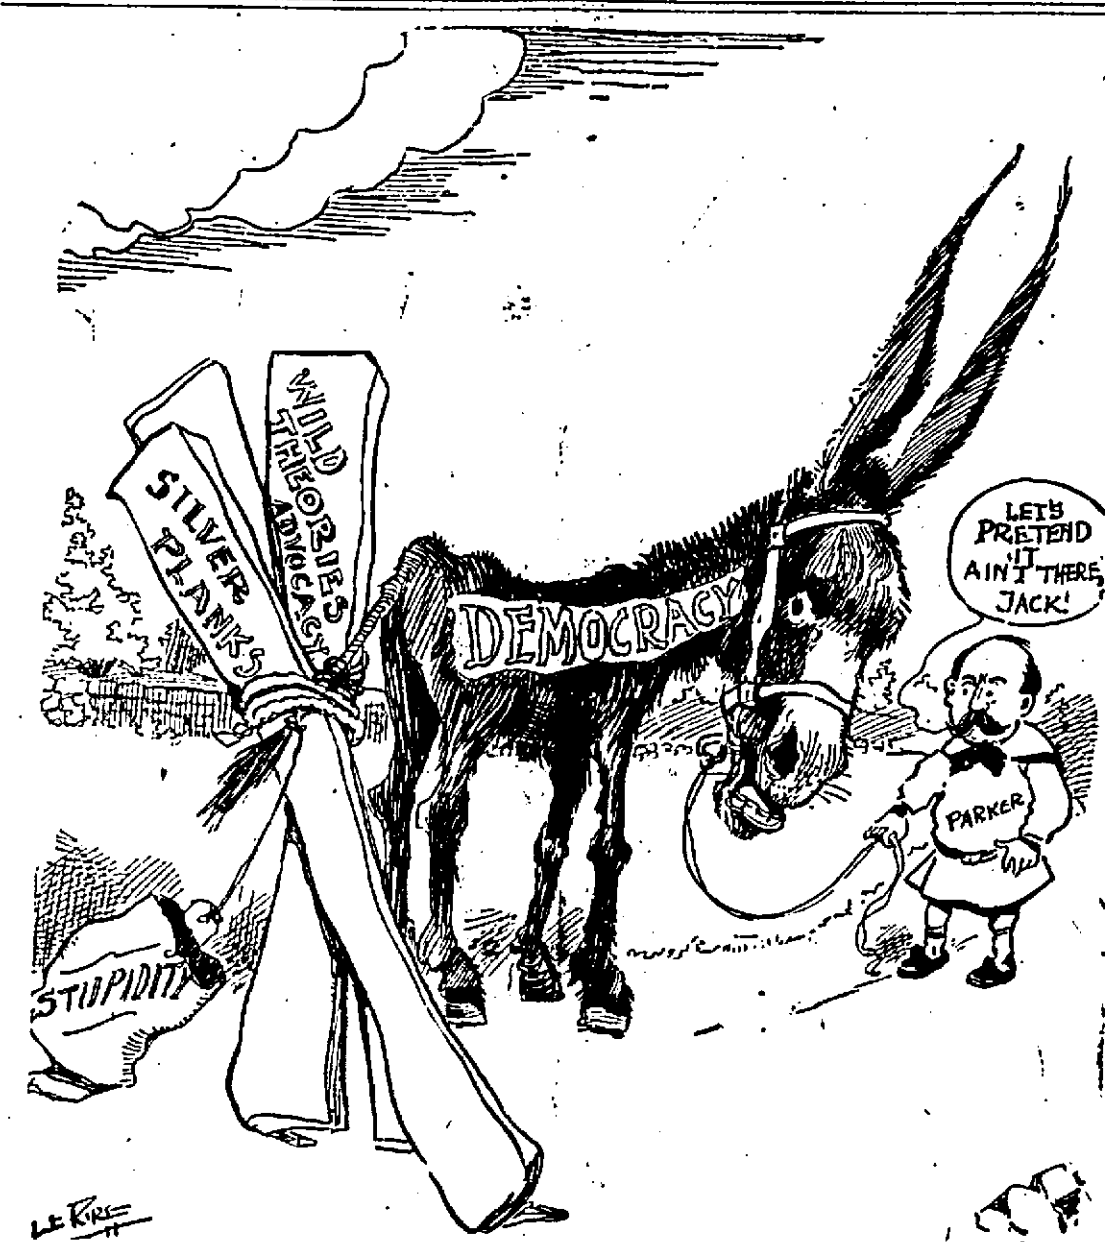

(Special by Scripps-McLae.)
London, Aug. 29.—Word comes from Tokyo, from an official source, that General Kuropatkin has seized the railroad south of Mukden, thus isolating General Kuropatkin's army at Liaoyang and cutting off his retreat to the north.
In another great battle south of Liaoyang the Russians have been defeated a second time, with the loss of 1,500 men and six guns.
As a result a four days' attack upon the forces of General Kuropatkin by the combined armies of Generals Nodzu, Kuropatkin and Oku the czar's troops have been driven back in two engagements in which they have lost a total of 2,200 killed and wounded.
Later advices from Port Arthur indicate that the fall of the fortress is imminent.

Wants to Retreat
St. Petersburg, Aug. 29.—From now on, it is expected, General Kuropatkin's efforts will be principally devoted to making good his retreat to Harbin, where, in accordance with his long cherished plan, he will reorganize and strengthen his army, so that after the winter he may be enabled to meet the Japanese on an equal footing and not be obliged to dodge from place to place in the way he has been doing since the Japanese crossed the Yalu river.
It is believed he can still make his way to the north, at the same time protecting his rear from any danger of a Japanese attack by using the railroad, which the Japanese, in the absence of rolling stock, will not be able to avail themselves.

TOGO READY FOR THE FINAL DRAMA OF THE WAR

Depletes His Fleet To Allow Brother Admiral To Secure Some Honors.

(Special by Scripps-McLae.)
Tokyo, Aug. 29.—It is stated on good authority that the navy officials have taken cognizance of the report that the Russian Vladivostok squadron has been repaired and is about to start on another of its raiding trips. Now that the breaking up of the Port Arthur fleet has enabled Admiral Togo to release the speediest vessels of the Japanese navy which he found it necessary to use in scout duty while the Russian fleet was intact, these vessels will be added to the fleet under command of Admiral Kamimura, to whom has been delegated the duty of putting the Vladivostok ships absolutely out of commission.
The admiral's friends say he may be depended upon to complete the work which he began by sinking the Kurik in the Korean straits and it is believed that with the new vessels added to his command he will make a short end of the threatened raid.
Today's news from Port Arthur announced here contains nothing definite beyond the assurance that the Japanese are making rapid and satisfactory progress in their work of driving in the Russian lines. News of the capture of the fortress is momentarily expected. Very little can be learned of the movements of the forces around Liaoyang except that Kuropatkin's object is to block the retreat of the Russians in the direction of Mukden.

THE DONK—I'D LIKE TO GET RID OF MY BACK RECORD

ALBION GUARD IS UP IN ARMS NOW

Sultan's Private Soldiers Refuse to Work Longer Without Receiving Their Pay.
(Special by Scripps-McLae.)

Berlin, Aug. 29.—A dispatch to the Tageblatt from Constantinople says the Alban guard of the sultan in the Yildiz palace revolted as a result of the non-payment of their wages and were subdued by other troops only after several had been killed and wounded. The sultan was greatly disturbed by the occurrence.

DAVID BENNETT HILL TO ABANDON POLITICS

Former Senator From New York Will Devote His Time to Private Affairs After Present Campaign.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 29.—David B. Hill declared Sunday that he intended to retire from politics Jan. 1 next and that no matter what the result of the coming campaign might be, either state or national, he would relinquish the leadership of the democratic party in New York.

He added that in the event of democratic success this fall he would not accept any position under the national or state democratic administration or again become a candidate for election to any office whatever.

Former Senator Hill made these statements on the eve of his birthday anniversary. He was born Aug. 29, 1843.

In partial explanation he said that he had intended to take such action a year ago, but was persuaded by some close personal friends to defer doing so until after the presidential election this year. Having been engaged in active politics since his youth and having served as city attorney, alderman and mayor of Elmira, member of the legislature, lieutenant governor, governor for seven years and United States senator for six years, he feels that he has been sufficiently honored by his party and that he has rendered political service during a period of years sufficient to entitle him to be relieved of further active political effort. He desires to devote more time to his personal affairs and professional duties than he has in the past.

Mr. Hill will continue his work in the present campaign, and to his friends said that he would always maintain his interest in democratic success, but only as a private citizen.

SANDY SOIL WAS GOOD FOR CROPS

Townships of Avon and Spring Valley Have Both Turned Out Banner Crops This Year.

"Crops throughout the two sandy townships in the county, Spring Valley and Avon, seem to be doing better than in any other special district," said a former farmer this morning. "The corn and tobacco seem to be in much better shape than in any other part of the county which surprised me greatly. Usually in a dry summer like we have had the sandy soil dries up, but this year it seems to have been the reverse. Crops generally throughout the county look to be in fairly good condition and I think that the best crop will be a winner."

BEGIN TRAINING FOR THE SEASON

Party of Athletes Go to Lake Waubesa to Begin Their Fall Work.

(Special to The Gazette.)
Madison, Wis., Aug. 29.—The University of Wisconsin football team for 1904 began yesterday with the departure of Assistant Coach E. B. Cochems with a party of a score of selected candidates for the Badger eleven for a preliminary training outing at Lake Waubesa, ten miles from here. Head Coach A. H. Curtis recently graduated from the Rush Medical college in Chicago and is now announced to be on a pleasure trip in the northern part of the state, but it is said he is out after two or three desirable gridiron boys whom Graduate Knapton's summer negotiations failed to land. The training season at Madison begins this fall earlier than ever before since Wisconsin invaded the east and was defeated by Yale by a score of 6 to 0. The reason for the early start is the rather hard schedule, also the necessity of developing a practically new team. The Badgers have only four members of the regular eleven of last year as the basis of the 1904 team. These are Captain E. J. Bush at end, Bertke at guard, Kemp at center and Flindley at tackle. However, some twenty or more of the 1903 second eleven, most of whom played in some of the games are available.

SAYS AMERICA WILL BE A CATHOLIC COUNTRY

Bourke Cockran Predicts That the United States Will Be Converted to Principles of Church of Rome.

New York, Aug. 29.—Bourke Cockran, in an address before the Catholic Societies of Brooklyn, said: "I visited Pope Leo XIII while in Rome and we had a long conversation on the good work of the Holy Name society. He said that there was no limit to the results which would be accomplished by the apostolate of the laity. He expected to leave the society in good condition and unfolded several plans to me which might be a benefit. The future of the society is represented in this country and the best results can be accomplished here. One of the results would be the conversion of the United States to Catholicism. I don't mean by that to change the government, but to preserve it. Our government would be of the highest if it had its root in Catholicism. Catholicism is a bulwark of democracy and the application must be vigorous to carry out the principles of it. Within a century I look forward to the country being converted to the Catholic faith."

MADISON LADIES WANT GOOD GAS

Makes a Formal Protest to the Common Council on Present Grade Used.

A number of the leading matrons of Madison society are in a crusade upon the Madison Gas & Electric Co., demanding that a better quality of gas be furnished. In a lengthy petition presented to the common council it is alleged that the gas furnished by the company is impure and intolerable and the council is prayed to take such action as will result in betterment of the condition complained of.

LANDS BIG GUNS

Rome, Aug. 29.—A telegram from Chefoo reports Admiral Togo landed fifty heavy guns from the Port Arthur fleet to be used in the bombardment of the city by the land forces.

EGGS VALUABLE IN JAUNDICE

Eggs are the only food for persons afflicted with jaundice.

TRAPS FOR CURIOUSITY HUNTERS

Many of the local curiosity shops planted in the back streets of most county and country towns are simply kept up by large London firms, who, from a prolonged study of human nature, have discovered that people who are shy of buying old furniture or old silver in bond street or Piccadilly are ready and eager purchasers of precisely the same objects, at a rather higher price, when they come upon them in the back streets of a country town.

STRIKERS SAY, STICK IT OUT!

Packers Say Backbone Is Broken and the Men Will Return to Work at Once.

TEAMSTERS MEET THIS EVENING

If They Decide to Return to Work, Then the Butchers Will Have to Give Up Badly Beaten—Yards Are Quiet.

(Special by Scripps-McLae.)
Chicago, Aug. 29.—The national executive board of the butcher workmen met this morning to discuss the strike situation. They claimed they were considering plans to continue the strike, but the packers assert they planning to call the strike off. This is born out by the fact the butchers sent a sub-committee to visit the packers. The packers say many desertions in the strikers' ranks came this morning, and more are making application for old positions. The teamsters meet tonight to vote on the proposition to return to work. Their return would eliminate the strikers' best support and probably end the strike. This morning two hundred can workers at the Diesel plant of the American Can Co. were called out on account of the alleged discovery that two cars had been delivered to the packers in violation of the agreement with the union that none were to be furnished during the strike. A hundred and fifty others were made idle because of the walk-out.
The strikers' board sent a letter to the packers asking for a conference of the packers and the packers replied that further conferences would do no good and they would not again meet the labor leaders.
The packers then issued a statement to the public to the effect the plants are operating nearly the normal capacity. The new men are fast becoming skilled. The men now in their employ will be retained. New working conditions will be inaugurated providing full time for all work and a reduction of the number of men employed in consequence.

TWO ARE KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE

BARNEY OLDFIELD IS INJURED

Noted Chauffeur Loses Control of His Machine During a Speed Contest and It Crashes Through the Fence With Fatal Results.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 29.—Barney Oldfield, the racing chauffeur of Cleveland, O., lost control of his automobile in the fifth event of the World's Fair speed contest Sunday. The big machine crashed through the outer fence of the course, killing John Scott, a watchman, and injuring Nathan Montgomery, a negro so that he died a few hours later. Oldfield was injured and the auto demolished.
At the clubhouse, after the accident, Oldfield declared that the race was his last. He said he never would drive in competition again on an inclined track, declaring the sport too hazardous. He said he might take part in exhibitions, but not in contests.

JEALOUS MAN SHOOTS PAIR

Wished His Spouse to Die So That He Could Marry Young Woman, Whom He Had Learned to Love—Ends His Own Life.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—While seated at the piano playing an air which he had requested Augusta Guth, 20 years old, was shot and probably fatally wounded Sunday night by her stepfather, Lawrence Lentsch. Turning, Lentsch fired a bullet into Edward Moeller, the girl's fiancé, and then committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart. The tragedy, which was the culmination of an infatuation for the girl on the part of her stepfather, took place in the Lentsch home, 21 Aubert street. Moeller, who is 21 years old, lives at 1036 Nelson street. Both Miss Guth and Moeller were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, where they were operated on. At midnight it was said the young woman was still alive. Her fiancé was not dangerously wounded.

ASKS GIRL TO PLAY

Miss Guth was seated at the piano in the parlor of her home and her sweetheart sat on the sofa near by when Lentsch entered the room. The young woman was going for a walk with Moeller, but the father asked her to play once more. The shooting followed.

SEEKS RECONCILIATION

When he found that Miss Guth avoided him, Lentsch is said to have extended his abuse to her, many times threatening her life and finally forcing her to leave home, which she did a week ago. She went to the home of her sister, Mrs. Henry Feller, 558 Wieland street, but Sunday afternoon, at her stepfather's urgent request, returned. Lentsch, through the girl's mother, told her that he would thereafter "treat her all right." He also said he would withdraw his objections to her keeping company with young Moeller.

CARRIES WOUNDED FLANCS

Immediately after the shooting the girl and Moeller both ran from the house, but the girl fell as she reached the sidewalk. Fearing, however, that her father would follow them, Moeller, despite his own injury, picked her up and carried her to the home of August Aubert, 2524 North Western avenue, a block away.

ANOTHER CALLED HIS WIFE

Aubert called his wife, and the two young people were placed on couches, while Aubert ran to Hanna's Grove, a block south, and called Officers Jackson and Connor of the Town Hall police station, who were stationed there. Meanwhile, Lentsch had turned the revolver on himself. He was taken to Alexian Brothers' Hospital, but when he was placed on the operating table he was found to be dead.

MIMICRY IN FISHES

A remarkable instance of mimicry in fishes is described by Dr. A. Willey in Spolia Zeylanica. The Chirocentrus fishes known as sea buns have leaf-shaped and leaf-colored bodies, and when in danger they sink gently and inertly to the bottom, just like a leaf.

ANIMALS DO NOT THINK

John Burroughs, after a careful study covering many years, is of the opinion that animals do not think; but have a keen perception, and live entirely in and through their senses.

CRIPPLE CREEK TELLS ITS SIDE

EXPLAINS SOME OF THE RECENT RIOTS.

TELLS OF CIRCUMSTANCES

Lays the Responsibility Upon Other Shoulders Than Its Own in Recent Labor Difficulties.

Cripple Creek, Colo.—It has been stated that the cause of the recent labor troubles in Colorado was the failure of the state legislature to pass an eight-hour law. This is the excuse the directors of the strike have most often made to eastern union men when appealing for funds to advance the "cause of labor" and the one usually picked upon by outside writers on the subject to excuse the methods employed by the strikers in pushing the fight.

In truth the strike in the mills at Cripple Creek was originally claimed to be in sympathy, was called while the legislature was still in session and before the eight-hour law had been defeated. If there was any connection between the action of the legislature, the eight-hour act and the strike, it was the strikes that defeated the measure rather than the defeat of the proposed law that caused the strike.

Sessions of the Colorado assembly are limited to ninety days, convene early in January of odd years and expire by limitation early in April. Practically all legislation is decided in the last two weeks of the session.

On February 16, 1903, the Western Federation of Miners called a strike in the Colorado City reduction plants. Out of 220 men working all but 25 in the sampling department—were working 8 hours. The sampling department is run 10 hours, the remainder of the 21, three shifts alternating. All business of sampling can be done in 10 but not in 8 hours and for that reason the management wanted to run the full time.

The Western Federation of Miners had been trying to unionize the plant but had succeeded in getting less than one-third of the employees into the union. When the strike was called the non-union men refused to go out and the leaders of the strike, pursuing the usual tactics followed in every strike that has ever been called by the Federation, began an era of intimidation to threaten the property and force the non-union men into the organization.

The people of Colorado, the legislators, the mill owners as well as the non-union men in the mills and mines, are thoroughly familiar with W. F. M. methods and all equally distrust them. On two previous occasions the state had been forced to meet armed insurrection on the part of the organization against state and civil authority. Previous fights had been disastrous to the organization, resulting in its defeat to such an extent that there were few camps in which it retained a semblance of authority over the workmen. Under former leadership, a protracted warfare between the union and mine owners in Leadville had ended in the obliteration of Federation power over the workmen of the camp; the organization had been completely driven from Idaho as the result of popular reaction against its lawlessness and arbitrary acts. For three years an unsuccessful fight had been made among the miners to unionize Cripple Creek, Telluride and the smelters and reduction mills of the state, and practically no gain had been made toward it. The new management had on taking office declared that they would recover all lost ground and complete the work that former leaders had not been able to accomplish in Colorado. For this object they had moved the Federation offices from Montana to Denver and had initiated an aggressive campaign to bring the mills and mills of Colorado under complete subjection. It made no difference to the leaders of the Federation that the men working in the various plants and mines were contented with their wages and work; their refusal to come into the union was in opposition to the idea of the union leaders that all workmen in such enterprises must carry a Federation card and pay its dues.

The people had voted an amendment to the state constitution empowering the legislature to pass a class legislation bill to make eight hours the limit of a day's work in mines and mills. The Federation leaders hoped to use this measure as a club to force all mine and mill owners to pay the same wages for the shorter day that they were then paying for the old and at the same time to hold the new law as a club over the state and civil authorities in the fight they planned to completely unionize the mining sections.

Eight hours had been the prevailing day's work in Cripple Creek for nine and in Telluride for many years. Nearly all the men in the plants were working eight hours, but the Federation was after the workmen themselves. All efforts to get the men into the Federation had been met with a stubborn resistance on their part. They were not friendly to the Federation and would not join; they feared its leaders, did not endorse their methods to override law, authority or oppress the employers. Murdering, beating up and deporting non-union men had been the rule in every camp in which the Federation had ever operated from the time of its first organization. Nearly every fight it has made has been, not against mine owners, but against the men, to further its own membership, for the finding of metals is a profitable business in which the men employed share in the form of the most liberal wages and hours maintaining in any American industry.

When the legislature saw that the eight-hour law was to be made the basis for this general strike throughout the state, they had cause to pause. They knew that armed warfare would follow in every country in the state in which the Federation had the least foothold; that it is an organization that takes by force what it cannot secure through reason and out of justice; that its leaders teach socialism, the right of the laborer to do what he will with the property on which he is employed and that it practices destruction of all it cannot dictate the operation of. They had fresh in their minds the lawlessness of an army of 250 miners in Telluride armed with rifles purchased with union funds, which had marched in daylight on the Smuggler-Union mine, fired upon the workmen, murdering two, taking $3 prisoners and possession of the mine, driving the prisoners over the mountains and out of the country, shooting into their backs, beating them over the heads with guns, and holding the mine until its owners sued for peace and signed a treaty to take these same law-breakers into their employ.

Knowing these things and fearful of precipitating general warfare over the state, of giving the Federation license to assault every non-union man working in the mines and mills, the legislators refused to pass the law.

Their failure did not prevent the strike being called, but it probably prevented it spreading beyond the smelters of Denver, the mills of Colorado City and the mines of Cripple Creek and Telluride. Had the law been even more general and complicated.

As it was the lawless attacks of the Federation strikers upon the properties and non-union men involved necessitated an increase in the state militia and kept a part of it under arms almost continuously for a year.

The inception of the strike was greed for power on the part of the Federation leaders. There was in it nothing whatever to appeal to that sympathy of the public that naturally goes out to the laboring man. The men themselves were forced into the fight by the heads of the Federation. They were opposed to it being called, knew they had nothing to gain, nothing to ask, nothing to expect. In the camps involved all men were working eight hours, drawing the top wages paid for such labor and asked nothing more. The leaders wanted all to belong to the organization and meant to force them to join; there was no other issue involved.

In Cripple Creek the lowest wages paid any man doing any work on a mine is $3 for eight hours; the rock is nearly all broken by machine drills. Operators of these get $4 and their helpers $3.50. The average wage is close to $4. The men earn from $60 to $150 a month, paid in cash, no company stores or boarding houses to patronize. The men live in comfortable homes. There is no destitution, no hunger, no poverty in a Colorado mining camp. The men nearly all have a few hundred dollars ahead at all times; they have to laugh at the ideas of suffering that have spread through the east, at the fanciful tales of oppression and abuse that are being told to draw money from the eastern unions into the Federation coffers. These men were sacrificed to the greed of their union leaders to force all men working in the mining industry to acknowledge them as their labor masters, to pay dues into the union, and for no other hope of gain. There was never a thought on the part of either union workers or mine owners to change these wages. The hours of work were well placed at and limited to eight hours, are in reality much less for the average; the men eat on the company's time, twenty minutes for lunch; they go to the point of work in the mine on company time, they get in their round of holes, so that few work over seven and many less than six hours a day. There was never thought on the part of either employer or employee to change these hours or wages; the question was not involved nor raised in the entire strike.

The strikes were called to force the non-union men to join the union; they ended with over 2,000 of the original 3,000 union men who were working in the camp when the strike was called renouncing the union, denouncing its methods and remaining to work as non-union men. It is only away from Cripple Creek that the union continues to be looked upon as a suffering and abused body; at home it is universally condemned and denounced. Eastern unionists are supporting a union whose former members will no longer have anything to do with.

The sympathy that is being given by the east is misplaced; it should go to the men the Federation leaders drove from work, kept from work for a year and for the originally non-union who have since the organization of this Federation been its particular marks for abuse, maltreatment and murder.

When the public comes to know the truth all their blame for the year of strife in Colorado will be placed on the heads of these men.

The battle was fought to further the ambitions of one man—D. W. Haywood, a socialist with dreams of controlling government through the laboring man, through an army of laborers, armed and militant. To that ambition alone can the men forced from work and driven from their homes to the best mining camp on earth from the standpoint of the miner, lay the blame that now all non-union in a camp where formerly more than half were union.

This Federation is not a union seeking to benefit and uplift its members but a labor trust looking to the political control of government and property and people, and it was to that end that the battle in Colorado was waged. Because it was working to that end, because the people, the mine owners, the members of the union themselves knew that it was working to that end and that alone, it lost its fight when the people took a hand and brought it to an issue.

LACK OF MEAT IS EDUCATING PUBLIC

Teaching Them What Uses Vegetables Can Be Put To in Time of Need.

The scare of a meat famine has caused people to form the habit of eating less meat, in spite of the fact that it is now plentiful; and the fact that people are eating less meat has caused a decrease in the amount of sickness prevalent, notwithstanding that the meat furnished Janesville has always been of the highest grade.

"Nearly everybody has been in the habit of eating too much meat," said a physician yesterday. "Many people eat it regularly three times a day. Once a day is a great plenty. With a meat famine should get ready for it by consuming less meat. And unknowingly, they thus benefited themselves as a whole."

"The eating of an excess supply of meat is all habit. It causes rheumatism from excess of uric acid in the system; also kidney and liver troubles. Diseases of this nature seem to have decreased in their severity and the number of cases since the meat famine scare began."

"The fact that meat is not vitally essential as a food is demonstrated by the Japanese, who feed almost entirely on cereals, and who are showing remarkable physical endurance in their war against the Russians."

"There is a good deal in the fact that people become a good deal like that which they eat. Those who eat an excess of meat are likely to be more hot-headed and less reasonable; their hot blood heats the more easily. In fact, I believe, that the man who insists on continually stuffing himself with pork inclines more in nature the animal whose flesh he devours."

"The recommending of a continuance in many cases to a greater extent still of abstinence in meat would not be a good thing for the pocketbooks of the physicians, but I believe it would aid humanity; and the doctors would try to get along somehow with the decreased practice."

A JOINT PICNIC AT YOST'S PARK

Janesville and Beloit Women Catholic Order of Foresters Picnic Saturday—Local Court Win Honors.

One of the most enjoyable picnics of the season was held Saturday at Yost's park. The Women's Catholic Order of Foresters, St. Mary's Court, No. 175, and St. Thomas Court of Beloit, with their families and invited friends held their annual outing. About eight hundred people participated in the pleasures of the day. The Janesville court won all the events, of the day of which the following is a summary: Fat women's race, Mrs. J. J. Kelly; lean women's race, Mrs. R. H. Hildner; short women's race, Mrs. Klingman, Janesville; Mrs. Hayes, Beloit; potato race, Mrs. W. H. Brazzell, Mrs. Gray, Beloit; Irish trot, W. T. Dooley and Mrs. J. J. Kelly, Dan Ryan and Mrs. John McCue, honors even; girls' race, Marie Donahue; short boys' race, Frank Lawler; tall boys' race, Fred Rextoth, Beloit. The tug of war between the Janesville and Beloit courts was easily won by the Bower city ladies, their team being as follows: Mrs. M. Murphy, Mrs. Newman, Mrs. H. Nelson, Mrs. George, and Mrs. J. J. Kelly. The climax of the afternoon was reached when the Beloit ladies attempted to duck Mr. Dennis Hayes of this city in the river. He barely escaped a good ducking and can thank his friends from the Bower city for his narrow escape. Smith's orchestra furnished the music both afternoon and evening and the day was a most enjoyable one to all.

STERICKER HORSES GET FIRST PRIZES

Judges at St. Louis Exposition Tie Blue Ribbon on Three Janesville Equines.

In competition with one hundred and fifty choice equines from all parts of the country three horses from the Stericker stables at Janesville have been awarded the blue ribbon at the St. Louis exposition. Mr. Stericker who is personally in charge of his stable there is to be congratulated. The award of the judges is calculated to focus the eyes of horse-buyers throughout the entire continent on the Bower city.

DEMOCRATS HOPE IN DIVIDED FOE

LOOK FOR VICTORY IN THE STATE THIS FALL.

CONVENTION ON WEDNESDAY

Peck Choice for Governor—Vilas To Be a Prominent Factor in the Fight.

Spurred on by the hopes that in a divided republican party they will be able to snatch victory for democracy from the voters' grasp at the polls next fall, every energy is being devoted to showing a united front to the enemy by the leading democrats of the state. Men who left the party in 1896 and 1900 are back in the traces pulling as hard as the wheel-horse who has stood the brunt of the fight for the past eight years. Not only are they pulling as hard but they expect to divide the honor if successful. The eyes of the democrats all over the country are turned towards Oshkosh and the state convention next Wednesday. The gold democrat element tried to gain control of the Rock county convention on Saturday last and were turned down. The same gold element of the party will be at Oshkosh and hope to gain the leadership once more of the "great unwashed."

Vilas to Fore Ex-Postmaster General, ex-Secretary of the Interior, ex-United States Senator William F. Vilas of Madison is to be a prominent feature at the Oshkosh gathering. A supporter of Buckner in '96 and a McKinley man in 1900, Senator Vilas sees a chance for the return of his former glory in the possible election of Parker and is back in line for all he can get. He has engaged a suite of rooms at an Oshkosh hotel and will be more than prominent in all the councils of the party.

Peck the Choice

George W. Peck for governor seems to be the cry of the people now. Twice elected governor during democratic landslides the jovial editor of Peck's Sun, Peck's Bad Boy and other tales of delight to the small boy, ex-Governor Peck hopes to secure the nomination and slip in during the factional fight in the republican party. Peck is no speaker and if he attempts to stump the state against La Follette or any first-class speaker he will be snowed under as deep as a western blizzard. Democrats who left the party in '96 and '00 are not all going to come back at the beck and call of the leaders. La Follette had gained many of them and the Bryan and socialistic followers of the donkey party of former days would much rather vote for a man like La Follette than Peck. Peck has had two terms and in his two terms he never did exceedingly much, except being instrumental in organizing a newspaper called the Times, which was to deliberately steal thirty thousand dollars from the state treasury, but was caught in time to save the state and ruin Peck and others interested. Governor Peck is a nice man. He is a jovial man, but it is doubtful if he can again be elected governor.

The Ticket The following is the ticket picked by men in close touch with the leaders:

Lieutenant governor—Burt Williams, Ashland; Dr. M. J. Lathrop, Marshfield; Judge F. Norden, Washburn.

Attorney general—W. F. Wolfe, La Crosse; Martin Leuck, Janesville; Judge Becker, Monroe.

ENTERTAINED AT SOAP BUBBLE PARTY

Master Paul Richards Celebrated His Seventh Birthday Anniversary Saturday Afternoon.

Saturday afternoon at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. F. T. Richards, their son Paul, gave his young friends a very unique birthday party. The occasion being his seventh anniversary. The invitations were issued for a soap bubble party, they represented a miniature clay pipe on card board, and were very unique in design, as well as original. His guests assembled at three o'clock and spent the afternoon in blowing soap bubbles and it is needless to say that they blew pipes for soap bubbles as they were never blown before. At six o'clock his guests were served with delicious refreshments. The following young folks enjoyed his hospitality: Bessie Buell, Ethel Warner, Margaret Jeffers, Ruth Richards, Sherwood Sheldon, Bob Jeffers, Paul Richards, Harry Hazelton, Halley Day and Stewart Richards.

CANNING FACTORY AT ROCHELLE READY

For the Corn Harvest Which Will Soon Be Harvested—Contractor Ford Finished Work Saturday.

On Saturday William Ford of this city finished work on the new canning factory of Peter Hohenadel, Jr., at Rochelle. This is the new $60,000 structure which was recently damaged by a switch engine, the repairs being made at a cost of $500. The new factory is one of the most complete in the west and is now ready to receive the corn which will be harvested during the next few weeks.

MUCH GUESSING IN CRAWFORD CO.

Recent Storms Have Not Damaged the Crops in Rock County Very Much.

One of the greatest guessing contests of the season is being conducted in the Crawford and Vernon tobacco section where more than half a hundred buyers are riding about the country and guessing that the tobacco they see growing in the fields will escape wind, hail, rust and frost; reach maturity and be harvested with care; will cure in the sheds without shed burn, pole-rot or other blemish; be removed from the curing barns and stripped in suitable case, and be worth from 8 to 12 cents a pound some time after the new year opens.

This characterizes the movement of contracting for the new crop in the fields that has been underway for the past two weeks, during which fully a thousand acres of standing tobacco has been bought—or rather options taken upon—for, of course, everything hinges upon the ability of the growers to deliver sound tobacco, in good packing conditions, nearly six months hence. The indications are that the rush will continue until most of the early valley crops have been taken over.

Edgerton Heavy storms have swept the greater portion of the tobacco growing sections of the state during the week, which of course has done some damage to the growing crop, but they have put an end to the drought and put the soil in excellent shape to mature the later crops, which with warm weather promise well. The harvest is now well under way in all sections, probably from 10 to 15 per cent of the crop is already secured. Nothing in old leaf has developed during the week worthy of notice except the usual small business.

The shipments out of storage amount to six car loads, 300 cases, from this market to all points since last report.

Janesville

For this season of the year the usual amount of business was transacted here during the week. As the outcome of the great storm that passed over this section Sunday it caused the damper to be turned for a few days in order to determine what effect had been caused, and as the reports now show there is a possibility that it will not be turned back for some time. Many fields in the northern part of this section suffered most severely from hail and wind, some of them giving the appearance of being dragged by a comb, while others, looking as if a steam roller had passed over them. Before the crop of 1904 was sent to the shed, as matters look now, there will be some great scurry, and around for leaf that is now piled high and dry in the various warehouses of the city.

The shipments from here of late were those made by Fisher & Fisher of 76cs of 1901, a car of 1902 by S. H. Heddles, and 143 cs of 1900-02 by Geo. Rumliff.

Geo. McGiffin of Edgerton sampled here for the Fishers during the week. Quite a number of the dealers are now looking over the packings of the past winter and most favorable reports are made so far.

MAURICE MORTIMER FOR STATE SENATE

Social Democrats Hold Two Conventions Here—J. W. Born of Racine for Congress.

At the city hall in Janesville Saturday evening the social democrats held their congressional convention, delegates being present from Breidenbach, Monroe, Whitewater, Kenosha, and Racine. The meeting was called to order by Harry C. Haycock and J. W. Born of Racine was made permanent chairman and William Kaufman of Kenosha, permanent secretary. J. W. Born was named as the nominee for congress from the first district on the first ballot. To serve on the congressional committee, A. Mortimer of Janesville, Geo. C. Ellis of Monroe, Isaac Peterson of Whitewater, J. W. Born of Racine, and John Burns of Kenosha, were elected. George Kilby of Janesville was made permanent chairman of the senatorial convention and Maurice Mortimer received the unanimous vote as nominee for the senate from the twenty-second district.

AMONG THE WORLD'S WORKERS

News Notes From Various Sources of Great Interest to the Workingman.

The Macbeth Irons Glass Company, probably the largest manufacturer of lamp chimneys in the country, employing 4,000 men, has announced that its plants will be run on the "open shop" basis beginning next week. The company has works at Pittsburg, Charleroi, Pa., Elwood at Marion, Ind.

After a shut down of two weeks the China, Pembroke and Webster Cotton Mills, in Sumner, N. H., open, the 1,500 operators returning under a reduction of 12 1/2 per cent in wages. There is no indication of any trouble over the reduction. The cut in wages was announced shortly after the decision of the Fall River manufacturers to lower wages.

The cotton mills at Hawkesville, Ga., have closed down on account of the supply of cotton having become exhausted. The closing throws a large number of operators out of employment.

A summons was issued on Chas. L. Edlitz, in New York, president of the Building Trades Employers' Association in an action recently commenced in the supreme court by James J. Daly, of the Tile Layers' Union, on behalf of the Building Trades Alliance. The action is to determine the validity of the general arbitration plan adopted by the Building Trades Employers' Association and the unions on July 3, 1903, to determine whether or not the employers' association is a corporation doing business in restraint of trade, in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, and also to ascertain at the same time whether the system of bonding the various members of the employers' association is one that will be upheld by the courts.

CHEERS WERE ALL FOR PLUCKY JAPS

At the Moving picture Show Last Evening—Lecturer Gave Some Startling Pronouncements.

There was applause for the pictures of the emperor of Japan, Admiral Togo, and the other oriental heroes at the moving picture show last night but the Czar Nicholas, Kuropatkin, and others were greeted with a silence that showed where the universal sympathy lay. One of the moving picture representations of a skirmish between the Japs and Russians, entitled "In Ambush," especially good. The remarkably long "train robbery" film was also exhibited and their were some good stereopticon slides of the St. Louis exposition wonders. The lecturer gave some new and startling pronouncements of Russian and Japanese names which were greeted with frequent cheers by the audience. The Globe Traveler Co. will present a new series tonight.

For Washing Flannels All woolen goods like underwear and blouses are washed best with Beach's Peaso soap because such articles cannot be rubbed, and hot water cannot be used. By soaking woollens in Peaso suds and rubbing the finer places between the hands only, good results are obtained.

A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY

Most Have Luxuriant and Glossy Hair, No Matter What Color.

The finest contour of a female face, the sweetest smile of a female mouth, lose something if the hair is crowned with scant hair. Scant and falling hair, it is now known, is caused by a parasite that burrows into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality. The little white scales the germ throws up in burrowing are called dandruff. To cure dandruff permanently, then, and to stop falling hair, the germ must be killed. Newbro's Herpicide, an entirely new result of a chemical laboratory, destroys the dandruff germ, and, of course, stops the falling hair, and prevents baldness. Sold by leading druggists. VERDICT OF THE PARTY
From the report of the Committee on Credentials to the REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION, 1904, which was unanimously adopted by that convention, June 23d, 1904.

Your committee report it to be their final judgment that the convention which elected said John C. Spooner, J. V. Quarles, J. W. Debevoise and Emil Baensch as delegates at large, and their alternates at large, to this convention from the state of Wisconsin WAS THE REGULAR CONVENTION OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY IN WISCONSIN, and that the delegates elected by it are the regular elected delegates at large from the state of Wisconsin to the republican convention, and, as such, are entitled to seats in this convention.

THE FARMER IS INTERESTED.
The difference between the two great political parties can be concisely stated. The republican party has a definite policy; knows exactly what it wants to do and does it. The democratic party has an underlying principle, and when they have the power to do, do not know how to use it. The republicans carry their ideas into effect; the ideas of the democrats on all of the great questions that affect the prosperity of the country are negative.

To claim that the one is always right and the other always wrong would be absurdity but to claim that the results of the policy of one, as it affects the daily life, and well-being of the people, as against the lack of a definite, well defined and well executed policy of the other, has been proven over and over again to have produced the greatest good, to the greatest number is easy to demonstrate.

If this was an exclusively agricultural country or an exclusive manufacturing country, the problem would be easier to solve. But it is both, and rules that benefit some sections, seem to injure others. Absolutely free trade that might help the farmer, would destroy the manufacturer, and where so many varied interests have to be considered the policy that benefits the greatest number and the country as a whole is the one that should be carried out.

Apparent injustice is done to some interests by any tariff law that might be enacted; but still greater would be done by none at all or one so inequitable that its effect would injure the country at large.

Political economists of world-wide celebrity have differed as widely as the poles on the question of protection or protected interests, and free trade, or a tariff for revenue only, which is practically free trade, but political economists, like all other theorists, see only "one side of the shield," and all theories that are applied to facts are vain.

The present condition of the United States, in its unquestioned prosperity and its steady advance to a commanding position among the great powers of the world, owes that position more largely to its tariff than any one other condition.

The country is populated with an intelligent, industrious, brave and honorable people. Within its borders

It has the soil and climate to produce almost everything that grows on earth. Its mountains team with metals. Its coal and timber and oil are inexhaustible. The enterprise of its citizens is boundless. No happier people than those who have so many of the necessities and luxuries of life at their disposal exist anywhere on the globe; and it is not too much to say that the wisdom of the republican party has had much to do with putting it in their power to take advantage of the circumstances by which they are surrounded.

It is not the purpose of this article to analyze and take up in detail what that party has done for the country, but to soberly ask the intelligent voter whether it is wise to change from this known, successful, prosperous system, to the unknown, experimental and unsettled policy of the opposite party, no matter how admirable may be its standard bearer, or how honorable and patriotic its leader.

CURRENCY REFORM NOT AN ISSUE.

Advocates of credit currency deplore the fact that it is not made an issue in the present presidential campaign. They think that this would be an opportune time to bring the question before the people of the country.

It is not an opportune time. Such a question as this cannot become a political issue until a very large body of public opinion has been crystallized in regard to it. At present it is safe to say that not one of the several plans of currency reform could command the support of fifteen to twenty per cent of the business men of the country. Each plan has many strong supporters but none has, as yet, obtained the support of a majority even of bankers who are the very class who ought to know most about the problem—and to be most concerned in its solution.

Under such conditions as this it would be the height of folly for any political party to take up the subject and make it an issue in the presidential campaign. The advocates of the two present currency systems, and advocates of credit currency, of emergency circulation and of the various other schemes of currency are blocking the way of each other so far as any government action is concerned. The last two secretaries of the treasury have been advocates of some form of credit currency, but the republican party could not take up the subject in a practical way until it was confident of the support of the business interests of the country. Mr. Bryan is the only conspicuous politician who has discussed this subject in any considerable degree, and he has done so as a stout opponent of credit currency. The confusion which exists in business circles on this subject is illustrated by the fact that one of our financial leaders changed his views in regard to the subject three or four times in the course of one winter. At one time he wanted credit currency and at another time he did not. In view of this uncertainty it is certainly out of the question to expect that those responsible for party policies and party action will make the currency reform an issue in the campaign. The first requisite to action on this subject is for the business men of the country to come to some sort of an agreement in regard to it.

PRESS COMMENT

Ashland Press: Fortunately, northern Wisconsin is not in the tornado belt. It is also outside of the waterless belt, the treeless belt and the alkali belt.

Sheboygan Journal: Dowle has taken the contract for building a trolley road. Next thing his subjects will be running devil wagons.

Madison Journal: The czar's a little late in granting amnesty that he ought to have handed around when he was married, instead of waiting to do it in the name of his son.

Menasha Record: What is there in the composition of a La Follette that makes him fear a riot at all conventions—his conscience?

Green Bay Gazette: According to the Appleton assessment rolls there are but four taxable "watches" in the city. Owners of time pieces must have been on the watch when the assessment made his call.

Hudson Star-Times: Governor La Follette and his cult belong to a sect who believe in reforming the world by beginning with themselves last. They outrage constantly all the standards of political virtue which they erect for others.

Green Bay Gazette: That football player who was killed a few days ago forced the season. We are under the impression that baseball umpires, railroad and steamboat have the right of way to death in the summer.

Oshkosh Northwestern: Whatever else the friends of Governor La Follette may say for him, they will hardly have the fact to claim that it is a case of the office seeking the man this year. It is plainly evident that the chasing is all being done on the other side.

Rockford Register-Gazette: Not to be outdone by Uncle "Hank" Davis, who recently led a cotton, the old settlers of this section will dance at their picnic and reunion at Ho-No-No-Gah park Aug. 30.

Milwaukee News: Now that the democrats of the Third district have been "familiarized" enough to nominate one of his appointees for congress, Governor La Follette ought to be quite as well satisfied as he would have been if the republicans had named Appointee Bancroft for the place.

Madison Democrat: The effort to get a bill through the New York legislature to prohibit the docking of horses' tails met with failure. The members are supposedly of opinion that horses look better with stubby tails and they probably think it feels good to a horse to have his caudal appendage severed by a brute with an ax.

Sheboygan Telegram: That deep, dull, ominous rumbling sound is not the dread cyclone, nor yet the crash of the great Russian guns crumbling Tokio into the sea; it is the on-pressing hooves of democratic orators becravelling the assignment room preparatory to going forth to overwhelm and crush as an egg shell the cowering masses of the enemy.

La Crosse Leader-Press: To show the state administration is not extravagant Secretary of State Houser has issued a table comparing the expenses of the state during the year 1904 with those of 1903, showing the state saved $81,000 in 1904 compared with the preceding year. As both were years of La Follette administration, what the secretary is getting at is difficult to understand.

Fond du Lac Commonwealth: The New York Herald, one of the leading newspapers, supporting Judge Parker, has paid a merited tribute to National Chairman Cortelyou and his methods of conducting a campaign. The Herald pays a fine compliment to Mr. Cortelyou's habit of thinking and acting quickly, and declares that the democrats have already found a number of instances where the new chairman has balked their plans by anticipating them. The compliment, which the Herald says, is all the more significant since it comes from an opposition paper.

Chicago Tribune: Success consists in being of some small use to the community or country in which one lives. It consists in having an intelligent, sympathetic outlook upon human affairs. That man has made at least a measurable success of his life who loves books, and art, and nature. It is success to have friends and be a friend. To have a home is a daily, perennial delight to return to—this is success. To have ruddy, healthy children who climb upon your knees and pull your hair and whiskers when they are young, and who are a comfort and stay to you when you are old—this also is success. To have the peace and philosophy to bear with a light heart and a tranquil mind the rebuffs and blows of fortune, should they come—this is success.

Whitewater Register: The Free Press makes a great ado over a few score old timers who voted for Fremont in 1856, and who declare that they are going to vote for La Follette this fall, though the party authorities and the state supreme court say that he has no rightful place on the republican ballot. There are probably over 10,000 voters still living in the state who cast their ballots for Fremont and Dayton, forty-eight years ago; and the fact that the Free Press master only a hundred or so who are ready to repudiate the party nominees now, proves that the great majority of the republicans of 1856 are still true to the old party which had its beginning in their youth. "Exceptions prove the rule," and the Free Press' few exceptions makes roll of honor ten thousand strong for the faithful many.

DEMOCRATS TURN FROM DEMOCRACY

Former Leading Politicians Come Into the Republican Fold with Bitter Denunciations.

Major John Byrne of New York, head of the Sound Money Democratic league in 1900, says that his correspondence indicates that thousands of sound money democrats will vote for Roosevelt rather than support Parker, who twice voted for free silver.

"The declaration of the St. Louis convention and the alarming cries of the democratic press call, in my judgment, for a fair review of the question from the standpoint of fact—as it appears to some of us who love our country and who wish to be true and loyal citizens and who know nothing of partisan politics when the honor and welfare of the country are involved," said Major Byrne today.

"The charge or even suggestion of imperialism or imperialistic impulse or purpose against any man or party of the American people is unjust and slanderous and an insult to American intelligence, and will not go unrebuked. Such a thought, I assert without fear of successful contradiction, has never had existence on American soil since forism was stamped out, unless, perchance, the magnet has found lodgment in the brains of those denunciators whose repeated and emphasized protestations of loyalty and devotion to the constitution lifts them in self-conscious civic virtue above their fellows of American blood."

"It is contrary to the genius of our people and so absolutely un-American that for it to be seriously charged by intelligent men, even under the strain of a hotly partisan political campaign, should be sufficient to discredit the cause for those men stand."

WISCONSIN MEN ARE ON THE LIST

They Will Compete for Prizes at the St. Louis Exposition Track Meet.

Three University of Wisconsin athletes are taking part in the Olympic games this week at the world's fair in St. Louis—George C. Poase, John Fuhrer and Emil Breitkreutz. Each is the possessor of a western intercollegiate mark and although they are not receiving prominent consideration in the forecasts, they are looked upon at Madison as a trio that will assuredly add points to the winnings of the western athletic clubs. They compete under the colors of the Milwaukee Athletic association, together with Archie Hahn, a University of Michigan sprinter, who is picked by some critics to win the 60-meter dash, and Fred Schulte, formerly of Wisconsin and latterly a star with Michigan in the high jump and hurdles.

Ponge is a colored boy of unusual intelligence and large popularity in college. He competes in the 60-meter dash and the 400-meter run Monday and in the 200-meter run Thursday. John Fuhrer, winner of the western intercollegiate high jump in Chicago in June, competes in that event Monday. He is said to have negotiated successfully a jump of 6 feet and three inches in practice at Madison, but can easily clear 5 feet and 11 inches in competition. He also competes in the old event, the hop-step-and-jump, Thursday. Emil Breitkreutz is booked to win the 800-meter run, for he ran the half-mile distance in 1:59 in Chicago in the last intercollegiate competition, lowering the previous western intercollegiate record, held by himself.

LITTLE SENTIMENT FOR THIRD TICKET

"Coroner" Ed. Parker Disappointed in Attitude of La Follette Men Here.

Edward Parker of the town of La Prairie, the only La Follette man in the Rock county republican ticket, who was generously nominated by acclamation for coroner as a consolation to the defeated element, drove into the city today to learn why the proposed coalition with the democrats had fallen through. Mr. Parker interviewed several leading La Follette men expressing himself warmly in favor of a third ticket in the field. His enthusiasm along this line was not shared by the men with whom he talked. Mr. Parker failed to file his papers declining the nomination in time and will probably be elected in spite of his vigorous efforts to overthrow the rest of the ticket. He left town in deep gloom.

MR. GALBRAITH MUCH HONORED

Noted Janesville Horseman Officialized as Judge of the Clydesdale Horses at St. Louis.

Mr. Alexander Galbraith returned from the St. Louis exposition this morning where he has for the past five days been judging Clydesdales in the greatest horse show ever held in America. Mr. Galbraith is doubly honored, not only by being unanimously chosen as judge by all the exhibitors of this class, but also by being the only judge of live stock of any kind from Wisconsin who officiated in the judging. As a souvenir of his official capacity as judge the exposition board presented Mr. Galbraith with a pure gold Greek cross with the four arms joined by the fleur de lis. In the center is the word "Jury" and the arms are decorated with the name of the exposition. Among the prize winning Welch ponies at the fair was Montgomery George, a Welch pony Mr. Galbraith owned when it took the first prize at the great international show at Chicago a year ago. It is now owned by Mr. C. E. Buell of Peoria, Illinois. Mr. Galbraith was accompanied by his wife, his son Victor, his daughter Crissy, and Douglas McKee.

CHICAGO GUNTERS WERE VICTORIOUS

Trimmed the Local Team by Score of 7 to 1 Before Big Crowd Yesterday.

Before a crowd of 1,600 people the Chicago Gunthers won their eighth consecutive victory yesterday afternoon, defeating the Janesville team by the score of 7 to 1. Groth of the Chicago Nationals was in the box. He pitched good ball, the seven hits made by the locals being well scattered. The following tabulations tell the story:

LOVE OF GOD IS SHOWN IN SERVICE

Rev. R. M. Vaughan Preaches from Subject, "First" at Baptist Church—Mrs. Mohr Sings.

At the first Baptist church yesterday morning Rev. R. M. Vaughan spoke from the topic "First." His text was taken from Mark 12-30: "And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy strength. This is the first commandment. The duty to love God, he said, was first in importance but not in time. With all human love for father and mother came first and this human love contained the alphabet through which the divine love was spelled out. Upon reaching years of understanding it becomes his supreme and inclusive duty to love God. The reason why men should love God is a simple one—He is supremely lovable. In order that this love may exist there must be both revelation and appreciation. He must be loved both with heart and mind, because no love is perfect that is not intellectually honest, and in this love there must be strength, showing itself in service. The love that does not so show itself is as dead as the light which does not shine.

During the service Mrs. Charles Mohr sang "Rock of Ages" from the Herbert Johnson composition. She has a sympathetic soprano voice of fine quality and wide range. Miss Edith Maltress of Edgerton and Prof. and Mrs. Taylor sang at the afternoon service.

LANDED BIG CARP BEFORE A GALLERY

"Dutchman" Pulled in Near Milwaukee Street Bridge by Leo Kingsley Weighed Over 15 Pounds.

Leo Kingsley, son of Richard Kingsley who resides on South Franklin street, demonstrated a big-fish story this noon by hauling in a fifteen-and-a-half pound carp a few yards from the Milwaukee street bridge. A crowd of several hundred watched the boy's efforts to land the big fellow and when he finally got the creature partly out of the water it looked nearly as big as the boy. He put both arms around the "Dutchman" and finally got it onto the bank with the aid of one of the spectators who came to his relief. It was carried into Piereson's store nearby and weighed. The boy made the catch with a small hook baited with a piece of raw potato.

CURRENT NEWS NOTES.

Fire Due to Strong Draft: C. W. Forest, a woodworker at the Jefferson mill, has figured out the cause of the recent fire in the boiler-room of the plant. He says that in close proximity of the boiler-room is the dust-room in which is the terminal of the dust blower. On the day of the fire this blower was not in working order and when the doors are closed there is a strong draft from the boiler-room through the dust-room and his theory is that sparks were drawn in there from the furnace. This disproves the theory that the blaze started from the engine.

POLICE LOOK FOR FAY IN CHICAGO

RAID HIS COUSIN'S SALOON LAST NIGHT.

NO TRACE HAS BEEN FOUND

Missing Man Has Vanished Into the Thin Air—Is Safely Hidden by This Time.

Search for Eddie Fay about Janesville has been decided to be useless. When Fay made his escape from the jail some time Thursday night or Friday morning he did not remain in the vicinity of his late captivity. The clue that a "mysterious" stranger looked over wigs and false boards in a local store makes it certain that he was prepared for any emergency and doubtless before the jail officials knew of his escape, had reached Chicago and was safely hidden. Acting on this theory the Chicago office

The above cut shows the manner in which the door to the lever box was forced open, thus allowing the confederate to raise the levers, releasing the door to the cage and the inner cells where Fay was confined. The picture shows how the lock was forced. First, a hole was drilled in the steel door; then a tap was placed in to properly thread the hole and then a screw was placed in the hole and turned with a die plate until the heavy steel was forced back and the lock opened and the levers reached. The whole affair was most cleverly accomplished and showed the mind of a master workman in the arrangements for the whole thing. Crooks of the calibre of Fay and his companions are usually skilled machinists, familiar with every instrument used in such work and the simple matter of filing bars and drilling cell doors open would be but child's play for them.

ers have begun their search of all possible places he might be concealed in Chicago.

Surrounding the saloon of Thomas Ryan at Thirty-fifth street and Vernon avenue after midnight last night detectives invaded the place in the hope of capturing Eddie Fay, Ryan is said to be a cousin of the fugitive burglar.

They were mistaken, however, in the belief that he was in the saloon, and after searching the place left, in the meantime word went out among policemen that the notorious robber had again been captured.

The excitement started when a detective who had been sent out to watch the saloon on the theory that the daring fugitive would again visit the proprietor, who claims him as kin, rushed into the station and exclaimed that a covered carriage containing two men and two women had driven up to a side door of the saloon and that the occupants had entered. One of the men, he said, bore a strong resemblance to Fay. Detectives were immediately sent to guard the outside doors of the saloon, while Lieut. Mulrany with two detectives proceeded to investigate.

"We were mistaken in our man," said Lieut. Mulrany, "but for a time I thought we were right."

"There is no doubt that money was passed around freely in effecting Fay's escape," said one high police official today. "Everything tends to show that somebody was bribed, and I doubt if less than $10,000 was spent in securing his release."

For a time previous to his last arrest Fay lived with a young woman in Windsor park, Chicago, under the name of Edwin Smith, and the woman, it is said, figured quite prominently in society there. Since Fay's recent capture she has disappeared, but the police are inclined to believe she was instrumental in effecting his escape.

Fay was convicted under the name of Smith some years ago, being prosecuted by Lieut. Rohan of Chicago for a burglary committed in Springfield, Ill. He was sentenced to Pontiac, but it is said was later paroled.

EXPRESSCO. VAULT WAS EDDIE FAYED

Combination at the American Office Refused to Work This Morning—Much Embarrassment.

When the American Express Co. officials attempted to work the combination to open the vault in the office this morning the disks refused to turn. Joking remarks to the effect that it had been hypnotized by Eddie Fay gave way to a sense of the serious predicament they were in when customers began to present orders and ask for cash. Of course the people eventually got their money from the banks but identification and explanations were necessary. W. W. Willis was working on the reluctant lock this afternoon.

NARROWLY ESCAPED SERIOUS ACCIDENT

John Daly and Mrs. Edward Bennett Victims of a Runaway on East Milwaukee St. Last Evening.

John Daly, driver for Dr. W. H. Palmer, had a narrow escape from serious injury last evening in a runaway accident on East Milwaukee street.

Mrs. Edward Bennett, whose buggy was overturned, was also badly injured. The accident happened about seven o'clock last evening.

Daly had taken the doctor's buggy horse to the Shawson Livory barn, where he was going to convey some trunks to the depot. Upon leaving the barn the horse became frightened and started to run. The noise of the wagon startled him and as soon as the wagon struck the street car track Daly could do nothing but hold on the reins and guide him.

The street car was coming down the street and Edward Bennett and his wife were near the car. Passers-by endeavored to tell Mr. Bennett of his danger just as his carriage was struck. Mr. and Mrs. Bennett were thrown from their carriage and Mrs. Bennett was severely injured.

Daly was thrown from his seat at the Galbraith barns and was dragged to Wisconsin street where the horse was stopped. Mr. Daly was picked up, but said his injuries were slight. However, upon examination it was found that his knees and arms were badly injured. Those who witnessed the runaway say it was a miracle that Mr. Daly was not killed outright.

SPECIAL MEETING OF CITY COUNCIL

To Take Action on Consolidation of Election Districts To Be Held Tonight.

All of the voting machines to be used in the national and state election of Tuesday, November 1, have arrived and are stored for the present in the basement of the city hall. The proposed use of these machines will necessitate the consolidation of the several election districts and in accordance with the laws governing such procedure the council must make the changes before the first of September. A special meeting has therefore been called for this evening.

The new districts will correspond to the wards. There will be two extra machines in readiness for the third and fourth wards, to be used in case of emergency, but if employed they will be set up in the same voting booths with the machines originally assigned to the respective wards. As far as known no voting booth for the fourth ward has yet been secured.

WILL HAVE NEW READING ROOMS

Trades Council Will Be Provided with Two New Rooms in the Gallery of Assembly Hall.

Owing to the increased numbers in the attendance at the Southern Wisconsin Business college, the room on the second floor of the old armory block which is now used as a union reading room will be converted into a room for the college. The local trades council has a lease on this room which does not expire until the first of next year but Mr. Hayes, owner of the building stated that two rooms built especially for reading room purposes would be fixed up in the gallery of Assembly hall if the council would release the contract. This has been done and work will commence at once and the rooms will be ready for occupancy by September first. Windows will be cut in the north wall and the partition between the rooms and the hall will be partly of glass, giving ample light for reading. These rooms are open to all union men and an abundance of fresh union literature is always lying on the tables.

FILIPINOS ARE MANY

1,300 ISLANDERS INCLUDED IN WORLD'S FAIR EXHIBIT.

More Than a Hundred Houses of Native Build—Whole Day Necessary to See Spectacle Thoroughly.
—Cost Is $1,500,000.

William H. Taft, the present secretary of war, was civil governor of the Philippine Islands, he conceived the idea that the World's Fair at St. Louis, almost in the center of the United States, would offer an excellent opportunity to show to the American people the wonderful resources of the archipelago and the character of the inhabitants. Gov. Taft outlined a plan for a Filipino display at St. Louis, which has been carried out faithfully.

The Philippine Exposition is perhaps the most striking feature of the World's Fair. It covers a tract of 17 acres. There are 1,300 natives. The buildings number about 113, not counting the numerous huts in the five native villages. Because the Philippine display is rather isolated from the rest of the Fair, the average visitor is generally amazed when he crosses the Bridge of Spain over Arrow Head lake, goes through the grim-looking entrance of the Walled City, and beholds the elaborate features spread out before him. The cost of the Philippine Exposition approximates $1,500,000. All of this expense except $200,000 is born by the Insular government, and the Filipinos are glad to contribute this amount to indicate the wonderful worth of this country and to get in touch with the progressive idea.

This Philippine Exposition is a place of contrasts. The man who goes into it thoroughly is amazed at the patriotism, culture and skill of the best representatives, and at the depravity, superstition and ignorance of the savage tribes. Some have said this exposition has taught that the word "Filipino" is misleading, that there is no standard type in the Philippines, that the displays of fierce Moros, naked Igorrotes, pompous Bagobos, and monkey-like Negritos, disprove the idea that the Philippines are populated by a homogeneous people. This is true in a sense, but it must be remembered that the Igorrotes number 200,000, the Bagobos 5,000, the Negritos 23,000, and the Moros 200,000 out of a total population of 7,635,426. The remaining 6,000,000 are for the most part people with keen intellects and culture, eager to grasp at any idea that might advance them, and have accomplished wonders with their limited means.

As you leave the Walled City a representation of the fortifications built by the Spaniards 300 or 400 years ago to repel Dutch and Chinese invaders, you face a plaza plastered with a luxurious growth of flowers and surrounded by a picturesque group of buildings. On one side is the Observatory, an odd-looking structure with two spires on each side shooting skyward, a pattern of an observatory at Manila. In its rear is a circular walk within which a relief map has been built by Father Jose Algue, a Jesuit priest, showing in an entertaining way the 3,014 isles and islets of the archipelago.

On the opposite of the plaza is the Agricultural building, within which is shown farm implements, marvelous native houses, hemp of all kind, rice, tobacco, coffee, copra and all other products of the field. There you will see long streams of hemp in fineness and sheen not unlike the locks of some peroxide blonde.

Nearby is a hall where stereoptical views are given of scenes in the islands, and to the northeast is the Fish and Game building, an impressive structure of the graceful palmar brava, thatched with alpa, its lower end stretching over the waters of the lake, giving the appearance of an American boat house.

On the other side of the plaza is the Educational building, modeled after the Manila cathedral. Here are samples of the industrial work, essays and other things done in the Americanized schools of the country. There are more than 200,000 pupils in the primary classes of the schools in the Philippines alone. Mrs. English has been taught in the three years of American occupation than during 400 years of the Spanish regime.

But to see the work of education actually in progress, the visitor should step over across a second plaza to a snug nipa cottage, within which Miss Pilar Zamora, a graduate of the Manila Normal school, gives lessons daily to about 50 little natives recruited from the various villages. This second plaza is bordered by the Commerce building, the Government building, a reproduction of the Ayuntamiento or capitol building in Manila, the Educational building, the Ethnology building, and a decidedly foreign-looking structure, called the Manila house, with a court, overhanging roof and windows made from the shells of mollusks.

PHILIPPINES AT WORLD'S FAIR

Complete Exhibition of Island People and Industries Covers Forty-seven Acres and is Independent of Larger Show.

Not even in the heart of Manila city could there be found forty-seven acres of Philippine territory as interesting as that amount of space covered by the islands' display at the World's Fair. Here is an exposition within an exposition, a little world that revolves independently of the larger one encompassing it.

Scores of buildings are filled with exhibits, native life is depicted by as many different villages as there are tribes on the islands, military drills are given by Philippine troops, and concerts are rendered by native bands. For its amusement features the Philippine exposition has the humorous Igorlites, who dine on dog meat, and visitors are entertained by Visayan actors and actresses. Nothing is lacking to make the show complete.

The Administration building is a replica of the government offices in Manila, while the Art and Education building reproduces in miniature the cathedral within the walled city, even the mellowed tones of age being faithfully rendered. A section of the ancient but still serviceable town wall has been reconstructed to serve the double purpose of a gateway to the show and a museum of arms and war relics. The other main edifices are types of Filipino homes, being built of undressed timber, bamboo and rattan, with thatched roofs and broad verandas.

Then there are the tribal villages nestled under the trees, some of the houses perched high up among the boughs, others on piles above the waters of the Arrowhead lake, all of them actual dwellings fashioned of native materials by native workmanship and illustrating the manners, customs and pursuits of their occupants. Here are women weaving a coarse cloth on a rude hand loom, others making baskets, others tending irrigated fields of rice. One group of men are in village council, trying an offender according to their tribal laws; others are slowly moving in a circular dance to the thump of tom-toms and the clang of brass gongs; others, again, are smelting iron by the aid of a primitive but most ingenious bellows, the constituent parts of which are a bamboo tube and an airtight mop of feathers working therein like the piston of a syringe. And these are but a few of an almost endless variety of life pictures.

The ethnological problem is a somewhat complicated one; but, although there are no fewer than sixteen races represented among the village dwellers, the scouts and the constabulary, each race speaking its own dialect and following its own customs, all may be roughly classified into four groups—the true aboriginals or non-Malays, the pagan Malays, the Christian Malays and the Mohammedan Malays.

The first are the dwarf Negritos, with dark skins and woolly heads, wearers of scanty raiment, proficient in the use of the bow and poisoned arrow, a race of nomads and forest dwellers, pagans pure and simple. They live in their own stockaded villages.

Next to them are the Igorrotes, whose origin is traced back to the first wave of Malay invasion. Here, again, we have, scanty clothing, amounting almost to nudity, but copper colored skins, long wavy tresses, pleasant featured faces and the physiognomy, even though the stature be small. Among these pagan Malays are the head hunters and the dog eaters. They are savages, yet have their code of laws and a knowledge of several primitive industries.

The Christian Malays, produced by the second wave of invasion, are represented by the Visayans, a tall and handsome race, dressing well, living in pretty homes, skilled in weaving, dyeing, basket making, hat making, wood carving and other handicrafts, musicians of no mean merit, the one group of natives who came early and thoroughly under the influence of the early Spanish settlers.

Very different are the Moros, who swept into the islands from the Malay peninsula last of all, bringing with them their Mohammedan religion, also a knowledge of gunpowder acquired with the Koran from the Arabs—fanciful like their teachers, pirates, blood-thirsty, treacherous and vindictive fellows, ever at war among themselves and with the whole outside world. Despite their ferocity they are a clever race, dress handsomely, have their sailors, while long continued pillage on the high seas has surrounded them with many of the luxuries and conveniences of western civilization.

The buildings of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries show all the varied natural products, also the extremely primitive processes as yet in vogue, while in the Women's building we are introduced to a number of native manufactures, including the beautiful fabrics from the just, banana and pineapple fibers. This information is collected in the Building of Commerce, where a unique and most effective method of exhibiting is followed. In one hall are samples of all the articles produced for export, among which Manila fiber, of course, holds the chief place of prominence, while in a second hall are all the manufactures from every country that are imported and find a ready market among the populace. Thus the business man gets a dual lesson. He sees what he can profitably take from the islands, and also what he may profitably send to them. When it is added that a large number of representative Filipinos have been brought over to visit the Exposition and study American business methods and manufactures, it will be recognized that great benefit both to the islands and to the world at large must result from this work of mutual enlightenment.

CONCERTS BY MASSES BANDS

Prizes Aggregating $30,000 to Be Distributed at the World's Fair.

Never were musical events in America planned upon such an elaborate scale as those of the World's Fair. A series of concerts will be given by competing bands in contest for prizes offered by the World's Fair. These contests will take place in Festival Hall, Sept. 12 to 17.

Nine cash prizes, aggregating $30,000, are offered for the successful bands. The prizes are divided so as to give to the organization scoring the highest number of points $3,250; $2,500 will be given to the band scoring the second highest number of points and $1,500 to the one getting the third highest number.

The above division is made for bands in Class A, which consist of twenty members. In the B class $10,000 will be given in prizes—first, $4,500; second, $3,500; third, $2,000.

Class C, which includes bands of thirty-five members, will enjoy the division of $12,750. For the organization scoring the highest number of points a prize of $4,000 has been named. The second prize is $4,000 and the third $2,700.

Bands employed by the Exposition are not permitted to contest. All players must be bona fide members, and each musician must have been enrolled at least three months prior to the date of the contest. Each band must send to the bureau the name of its members and a nominal entrance fee.

Festival Hall concerts by massed bands will be given at 7:30 each day during the contest, in which all contesting bands will take part under the direction of a distinguished conductor. All bands entering must agree to play one concert in addition to the competing concert and massed concerts.

A separate programme has been prepared by the Bureau of Music for each class, and each band will play through the full programme of its class. The numbers in all three programmes are by eminent composers and are chosen with the view of bringing out the qualities of the bands performing them. The list of composers includes Wagner, Gounod, Offenbach, Verdi, Saint-Saens, Bizet, Strauss and Leoncavallo.

WEATHER AT WORLD'S FAIR.

Cool Nights and Delightful Indian Summer to Be Expected at St. Louis.

Usually the warmest month of the year, July proved to be one of the most pleasant of the World's Fair season, the average temperature being 67 degrees, a record lower than that made by either Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cincinnati or Chicago. The weather bureau records show that the temperatures in St. Louis during July were just between the extremes recorded at New Orleans and St. Paul, cities located at great variance.

August in St. Louis is a month of cool nights, and September and October are the most delightful months of the year. It is that period known as Indian summer, when the foliage and birds linger to challenge the coming winter. Nowhere on the American continent is there a spot more delightful than the World's Fair city, a garden of blooming flowers and spraying fountains.

St. Louis, like all cities, experienced several hot days during July, but her highest temperature recorded was 93 degrees against 94 degrees registered by the thermometer at Chicago. On the same day the mercury rose to 96 degrees in Philadelphia, and scores of heat prostrations were reported from New York and Boston.

The relative humidity shows St. Louis to be about normal. Assuming absolutely no moisture in the atmosphere to be zero and absolute wetness to be 100, the relative humidities for July, taken from the records of more than twenty years, Boston shows 70.6, New York 72.2, Philadelphia 68.6, Cincinnati 61.6, Chicago 66.9 and St. Louis 60.3. The same degree of heat in two places, with different degrees of humidity, would cause it to seem the hotter at the point of greater density.

St. Louis may therefore rightly claim to be a summer resort this summer, positively one of the most comfortable and delightful places on the map.

Amateur Tourney.

Golfers Clash Sept. 5 For Title—Travis Will Win, Say All.

The annual amateur golf championship occurs Sept. 5 at the Baltusrol club, near Morristown, N. J. Of course, since his victory in the British championship meet at Sandwich, England, Walter J. Travis, champion of America, is conceded by all authorities to be the winner of the title once more. Travis is now playing the best game of his notable career and ranks as the greatest golfer ever developed in the United States. By birth he is an Australian, but he has been in this country so long that people have quite forgotten that the champion was born on British soil.

The tournament, therefore, resolves itself into a contest for second place. Five men appear to have the other entrants, with the exception of Travis, at their mercy. They are Eben S. Byers of the Allegheny (Pa.) Golf club, Frank O. Reinhardt of Princeton university, H. Chandler Egan, former champion of the west; Walter Egan, cousin of H. C. Egan, present western champion, and Findlay S. Douglas, ex-champion of America.

Douglas and Travis have been rivals for years, the latter finally gaining a decided mastery. Douglas, Byers and FINDLAY S. DOUGLAS, LONG A RIVAL OF TRAVIS.

Reinhardt have scored victories over Travis in contests in the past, but the present is another proposition entirely.

Byers it was who defeated Travis at the amateur tourney held at Glen View, near Chicago, when young Louis N. James of the Glen View club finally captured the title. James, who was but nineteen years old, had Byers to thank for his victory, for if Byers had not put the champion out of the way Travis would have made short work of James in the finals.

Travis, however, reasserted himself last year and won the championship handsly. He has captured the title three times and bids fair to hold it as long as he remains in the game.

Other able competitors in the national tourney will be George T. Brinkley of New York and Allan Kennedy of the Montclair (N. J.) Golf club. Kennedy was formerly champion of New Jersey. A. M. Reed, a recent competitor for the president's cup at the Ekwanok (Vt.) Golf club tourney, should also be a prominent factor.

The amateur tourney at Baltusrol will be played as follows:

Sept. 6.—Eighteen hole medal play round; sixty-four to qualify.
Sept. 7.—Thirty-six hole medal play round; thirty-two to qualify.
Sept. 8 and 9.—Match play at eighteen holes; two rounds each day.

Sept. 10.—Finals at thirty-six holes; amateur championship of United States.

Among the remaining features of the season are the following tournaments:

Aug. 30, 31, Sept. 1, 2, 3.—Annual amateur open tournament; Stockbridge Golf club, Stockbridge, Mass.

Sept. 8, 9, 10.—Tournament of the New York Golf club; Van Courtlandt park.

H. CHANDLER EGAN, EX-CHAMPION OF THE WEST.

Sept. 11, 12, 13, 14.—Annual tournament, Essex County (N. J.) Country club.
Sept. 19-21.—World's fair open amateur golf tournament; Glen Echo Golf club, St. Louis.

Sept. 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24.—Annual amateur open tournament; Lenox Golf club, Lenox, Mass.

Saturdays, during the Lakewood (N. J.) season, the Pine Forest Golf club of Lakewood will hold an eighteen hole handicap. Entries should be made to Sylvester Dyrnes, secretary, Lakewood, N. J.

Eyesight Hurt by City Life.

The English race is getting near-sighted owing to the city life and conditions of civilization, says a well-known oculist.

WOULD NOT SUIT THE GIRLS HERE

Dowie's Latest Decree Would Strike Terror to the Janesville Miss.

"Elijah" Dowie yesterday struck a blow at Cupid that would never be tolerated by Janesville girls. By a new rule hereafter young girls shall not speak to boys on the streets of Zion, and after she is 18, if she obtains the consent of her parents—and Dowie—she may, whisper a salutation as she and her male acquaintance shy by each other.

Weeping by Fair Damsels
There was weeping and murmuring and tears welling into the eyes of the fair damsels as they heard the terrible edict right from the lips of Elijah H. They quailed and winced, but they knew that it was final, and there were many broken hearts in little beds at Zion last night, for these are the tortuous rules, written indelibly upon their innocent little optic nerves:

1. A young woman under 15 will not be allowed to speak to a young man in the street.
2. A young woman more than 18 may speak to a young man—providing she has the consent of her parents and the venerable "doctor."
3. If papa and mamma think he is a nice boy, and Elijah doesn't? Can't speak to him in the street.

Residents of Waukegan are arranging for a Gretna Green establishment, which will consist of a thoroughfare upon which the youthful Dowieites may walk and as they pass speak to each other. But no loitering will be allowed. They must hurry past. However, they may make as many trips as they wish.

Dowie Defied by Girls
Dowie met with a setback at one meeting when he demanded that the women remove their hats, and was only partially obeyed. Members of the child choir of 300 failed signally to regard the order and Dowie scolded them and told them they were disorderly.

Again the head of Zion City scored Masonry and reiterated his endorsement of Roosevelt for president. He asked his congregation for those who would pray each morning for the election of Roosevelt to arise, and the whole congregation stood up. "If we had more men like Roosevelt we would be the model nation of the earth, which we are striving toward," said Dowie.

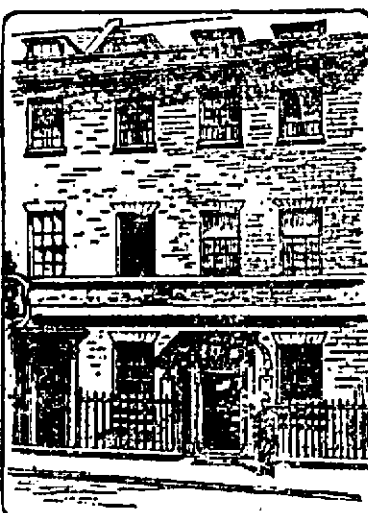

In his diatribe on the subject of Masonry Dowie said that God could not recognize any of the thirty-three degrees. "Excepting in a minor way," he said, "which is worse than none, it is a pure mockery and downright devilishness, which is only meant to attract the people who are somewhat religiously inclined. The Masons are a set of devils, always were and always will be."

Governments Protect Quail.
Quails are becoming so scarce that both France and Germany have absolutely prohibited their killing.

HAS DINGY OFFICIAL ABODE.

British Prime Minister Not Housed With Magnificence.

A dingy old house in a narrow cul-de-sac leading out of Whitehall, London, one of three which form a slender wedge of drab brickwork in a magnificent block of buildings—this is a fair description of the most remarkable dwelling house in England—probably in the world, for it is the center from which, for nearly a couple of centuries, the far-spreading

Exterior of No. 10 Downing Street. British empire has been governed, and where generations of prime ministers have made their home.

A couple of centuries ago Downing street consisted of "four or five very large, well-built houses fit for persons of honor and quality, each house having a pleasant prospect into St. James' park, with a terrace walk"; and it was one of these houses which George II offered to Walpole, the premier, as a personal gift; and from that day to this No. 10 Downing street has been the residence of successive prime ministers, and under its roof half a century of cabinets have met.

Smallest Electric Motor.
The smallest electric motor in the world has been built by a watchmaker whose work has trained him to handle delicate machinery with the exquisite care required in making a motor that moves with all the regularity of a big machine, and yet is so small that its owner wears it as a scarf-pin.

Viewed from a little distance, the article has the appearance of a very valuable and rather curiously designed pin. It is only when standing near to it that its nature can be discovered.

The first thing to attract attention is the buzzing of the machine, which, by means of a current obtained from a small battery carried in the vest pocket, is kept in operation at a high rate of speed, with a noise like a bee buzzing.

Special Sale of Palms and Ferns..

We had an opportunity to make an especially advantageous purchase of One Thousand Potted Palms and Ferns for cash, and although it is slightly out of our line of merchandising, it was such an elegant illustration of the saving power of our cash system of doing business that we bought them, merely to show the contrast between our cash store and other houses in the price making line.

These goods have arrived and are now on sale at our store. They will be found in elegant condition and truly fine specimens of the most beautiful and highly prized house decorations. This is beyond question the greatest opportunity ever offered to secure potted plants. They have been divided into eight lots, each with a comprehensive assortment. Look at these prices:

LOT 1. FAN PALMS--28 to 36 inches in height, 6 to 8 branches, large leaves, regularly sold at $2 and $2.50.... 75c	LOT 2. FAN PALMS--Just like lot 1 only smaller and not so fully developed; have from 5 to 7 branches, regu. lar value $1.50... 40c	LOT 3. FAN PALMS--Same as lots 1 and 2 but smaller size. 4 and 5 branches, partially grown, 50c value..... 25c	LOT 4. SWORD FERNS--Run up to 30 inches, in height, 6 to 10 stalks, very beautiful, perfect leaves, regular $35c value..... 15c
LOT 5. Asparagus Ferns--Fully blown, very dainty and pretty, an ideal table decoration. These generally sell for 10c 25c; our price.. 10c	LOT 6. Assorted Table Ferns--A large lot of beauties, the very thing for the table; usually sell for from 10 to 25c; your choice..... 5c	LOT 7. Japanese Fern Balls--These are the prettiest hanging baskets imaginable; very popular for parlor or dining room, $1.25 kind. 50c	LOT 8. Jerusalem Cherry Trees--Loaded with ripe fruit. The leaves are particularly dark and contrast beautifully with the bright red and yellow fruit, 50c value. 20c

Remember these goods are offered at the same low ratio of profit we place on our entire stock of dry goods. It is our way of doing business and in every instance it saves you money.
